UNIQUE PICTURE IN I. T. WILLIAMS SALE

N. Y. Times

2-27-15

"The Cathedral of San Marco, Venice," Formed of 21 Lithographs in Colors, Brings $165.

RYDER'S 'THE LOVERS,' $220

"Outlet of Lonesome Lake," by F. Hopkinson Smith, Sold for $105
—Pair of Majolica Vases $400.

A pair of Majolica vases brought the highest price of the afternoon at the Ichabod T. Williams sale at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon, going to W. Hall for $400. The same buyer paid $105 for the model of a doorway of the Alhambra. J. H. Fry gave $320 for a Graeco-Roman terracotta vase of the fourth century B. C., and $100 for an Etruscan terracotta vase, fifth century B. C. To Lorenz, agent, went an eighteenth century Delft garniture of three pieces polychrome decoration for $220 and a five piece eighteenth century Delft garniture of five vases for $130. The returns for the afternoon were $4,823, making the total to date $10,658.

The sale of the Williams pictures in the evening brought $3,078. An oil painting by Albert Pinkham Ryder, "The Lovers," went to Alexander Morten for $220; F. R. Welsh paid $130 for a "Street Scene," by Johannes Bosboom, and McDermott gave $130 for a painting by J. G. Brown, signed and dated 1876, "Now We Are Off," children playing with an old sleigh on a beach on a Summer day. A number of water colors went to W. Hall, who paid $105 for "The Outlet of Lonesome Lake," by F. Hopkinson Smith; $310 for "On the Tiber," by Samuel Coleman, signed and dated 1876, and $100 for another Hopkinson Smith, "Out in the Cool Woods." Bernet, agent, paid $165 for a pen-and-ink drawing by Matthew Maris, "Remorse."

A large and interesting picture of "The Cathedral of San Marco, Venice," formed of twenty-one lithographs, in colors carefully printed, went to Hall for $165. The picture gives an excellent view of the cathedral and is very large, 70 inches by 90 without the frame. It is framed without a margin, and because of its size has no glass.

The sale of the Williams properties will be concluded this afternoon.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. Any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance may be rejected by the auctioneer, if, in his judgment, such bid would be likely to affect the sale injuriously.

2. The highest bidder shall be the buyer, and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders, the auctioneer shall either decide the same or put up for re-sale the lot so in dispute.

3. Payment shall be made of all or such part of the purchase money as may be required, and the names and addresses of the purchasers shall be given immediately on the sale of every lot, in default of which the lot so purchased shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

Payment of that part of the purchase money not made at the time of sale shall be made within ten days thereafter, in default of which the undersigned may either continue to hold the lots at the risk of the purchaser and take such action as may be necessary for the enforcement of the sale, or may at public or private sale, and without other than this notice, re-sell the lots for the benefit of such purchaser, and the deficiency (if any) arising from such re-sale shall be a charge against such purchaser.

4. Delivery of any purchase will be made only upon payment of the total amount due for all purchases at the sale.

Deliveries will be made on sales days between the hours of 9 A. M. and 1 P. M., and on other days—except holidays—between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M.

Delivery of any purchase will be made only at the American Art Galleries, or other place of sale, as the case may be, and only on presenting the bill of purchase.

Delivery may be made, at the discretion of the Association, of any purchase during the session of the sale at which it was sold.

5. Shipping, boxing or wrapping of purchases is a business in which the Association is in no wise engaged, and will not be performed by the Association for purchasers. The Association will, however, afford to purchasers every facility for employing at current and reasonable rates carriers and packers; doing so, however, without any assumption of responsibility on its part for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such service.

6. Storage of any purchase shall be at the sole risk of the purchaser. Title passes upon the fall of the auctioneer's hammer, and thereafter, while the Association will exercise due caution in caring for and delivering such purchase, it will not hold itself responsible if such purchase be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed.

Storage charges will be made upon all purchases not removed within ten days from the date of the sale thereof.

7. Guarantee is not made either by the owner or the Association of the correctness of the description, genuineness or authenticity of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing, or any imperfection not noted. Every lot is on public exhibition one or more days prior to its sale, after which it is sold "as is" and without recourse.

The Association exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly, and will give consideration to the opinion of any trustworthy expert to the effect that any lot has been incorrectly catalogued, and, in its judgment, may either sell the lot as catalogued or make mention of the opinion of such expert, who thereby would become responsible for such damage as might result were his opinion without proper foundation.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Buying or bidding by the Association for responsible parties on orders transmitted to it by mail, telegraph or telephone, will be faithfully attended to without charge or commission. Any purchase so made will be subject to the above Conditions of Sale, which cannot in any manner be modified. The Association, however, in the event of making a purchase of a lot consisting of one or more books for a purchaser who has not, through himself or his agent, been present at the exhibition or sale, will permit such lot to be returned within ten days from the date of sale, and the purchase money will be returned, if the lot in any material manner differs from its catalogue description.

Orders for execution by the Association should be written and given with such plainness as to leave no room for misunderstanding. Not only should the lot number be given, but also the title, and bids should be stated to be so much for the lot, and when the lot consists of one or more volumes of books or objects of art, the bid per volume or piece should also be stated. If the one transmitting the order is unknown to the Association, a deposit should be sent or reference submitted. Shipping directions should also be given.

Priced copies of the catalogue of any sale, or any session thereof, will be furnished by the Association at a reasonable charge.

564—HIGH BRIDGE

The bridge crosses the picture in the middle distance, a high light accenting its tall arches just before the structure passes from view behind thick trees of a point of the shore in the foreground on the left. The trees are touched with brilliant red. The rippling river is a mirror of reflections, and a sail is seen near the bridge. Beyond is a further point of the shore, thickly wooded.

Signed at the lower right: S. M. B., '72.

Height, 6 inches; width, 4 inches.

565—ON A CANAL

A spontaneous sketch done for the artist's delight in the color and the contrasts of light offered. The location doesn't count, but it seems to be a boat-yard in Venice. An open-ended gray-brown shed with a reddish-brown roof houses a boat on ways, and in a canal alongside are other boats, this quarter in partial shadow; while beyond, the sunlight strikes brightly upon a low white bridge, and on buildings that show terra cotta, red and green.

Height, 7 inches; length, 10 inches.

UNKNOWN

566—LANDSCAPE

Moonlight from a white full moon struggling through white clouds and just visible over a wooded hilltop is beginning to lighten a peaceful country landscape. The wooded hill in the center gives place on the left to rolling land where thatch-roofed farm buildings stand, and on the right its flank is partly cleared, while at its foot in the foreground is a pond with ducks. Apparently a French landscape, suggesting those of Michel.

Height, 5½ inches; length, 9¼ inches.

UNKNOWN

567—A CAVALIER

Clad in buff, with scarlet breeches, a bright yellow sash and long-legged boots, a jaunty cavalier stands facing the observer and engaged in the act of lighting a long-stemmed clay pipe and blowing a lusty cloud of smoke. His hair falls in long curls of mahogany color to his shoulders, and he wears a broad, loose white collar and white cuffs. The walls of the room are of stone, and on a long table there is wine. His green hat trimmed with red lies on a bench.

Height, 8¼ inches; width, 6 inches.

568—THE LOVERS

Two lovers of an olden time are found at a rendezvous in a thick and ancient wood. The man, tall and erect, is facing the spectator, his head turned toward the lady, who standing at his left appears with figure turned three-quarters from the observer and face in profile. They are near to the trunk of a large tree with far-reaching branches, and the wooer extends his right hand in indication of direction—his dog at his feet ready with him to start at once—while the lady hesitates, studying her upturned palm meditatively, her pet dog on its haunches at her side, looking attentively up at her.

569—STREET SCENE

Through a crooked Old World Street, almost deserted, a peasant woman carrying a market basket on her arm and accompanied by a small boy is approaching, in the foreground, and another woman's figure is observed at the roadside further away. All are clad in dark colors. On the right is a tall building of ecclesiastical aspect, yellow, with a red tower and a gray slate roof, its street side in shadow while sunshine touches its higher corners and slants upon the red and yellow roofs of low houses on the left of the shadowed street.

570—DUTCH LANDSCAPE

Coming straight forward from around a bend in the middle distance is a dark green canal, its surface lightened near the center by reflections of the sky. Back in the distance rises over it the mass of a city's buildings, dominated by the truncated tower of a cathedral, spires and high gables projecting here and there and the buildings continuing forward along the canal's edge on the right. Here also passes a man on horseback, towing a boat, the line hauling from the masthead; the opposite bank of the canal is thickly wooded. To right are low-lying cultivated fields and long-armed windmills.

Height, 8¼ inches; length, 15 inches.

571—THE STUDIO

In the reception corner of an artist's studio, a prospective sitter, a lady in blue, is looking at colored plates from an album of beauties, and extends a detaining finger toward one picturing a tall and slender lady—she herself being short and plump. A lady in a plum-colored gown looks over her shoulder, and the quietly amused lady showing the pictures is in gray and brown. The furnishings of the studio display an Oriental fearlessness of strong colors.

572—STILL LIFE

Two yellow roses nestling amongst gray-green leaves are held in a slender glass vase, one rose opening to full maturity, the other quite blown and drooping slightly below it. On the table at the base of the glass lies another of the roses, on a green-leaved stem. Background of dark brick-red and green, the glass resting on a darker ground of rich notes.

573—BROOK AND BRIDGE

Trees and vines in a mass of greenery rise on the left at the end of a short stone bridge, masking its approach and throwing its base into shadow. To right delicate young trees sketch a leafy curtain against a light gray sky, along the line of the bridge, high-roofed buildings being seen beyond them in bright sunshine. Beneath the bridge runs a brook, at the foot of a steep green bank, and on the nearer foreground shore are varicolored boulders.

574—FLOWERS

A small bouquet of flowers from an old-fashioned garden is pictured in a bright light, against a reddish-brown and olive background. They are white and pink and red and yellow, with the red predominating, and sprigs of green are interspersed with them, as they rise from and overhang a low, dark-colored, ovoid jar.

575—A SUNSET: FONTAINEBLEAU

Two cows watched by a small girl have come to a pool amongst moss-covered rocks on the border of a green meadow for an evening drink. A red cow facing left has her head lowered to the water and a white cow stands in the pool looking at the spectator. The little girl is clad in red and blue. In the green foreground at the water's edge are spots of red amongst the verdure. On the far side of the pool trees with curiously twisted branches and open foliage stand as a screen, boldly silhouetted against the golden splendor of a brilliant sunset, the sky filled with light and many-tinted clouds.

AMERICAN: 1848—

576—PORTRAIT OF A LADY

Standing, and seen at full length against a decorative background in low key, a dignified woman in mature life is portrayed in rich, effective costume. She faces the observer, turned slightly toward the right. Her gown, broadly décolleté, is of rich and voluminous purple-gray and greenish-brown velvets, over brownish-gray, elaborately embroidered brocade, with puffed sleeves slashed in white, and shoulderless waist edged with white lace. She carries a silken bag and a peacock-feather fan, and wears a broad hat with overhanging plumes.

577—MOONLIGHT

The moon, at the full and bright, is heavily veiled by fleecy clouds. The orb is barely distinguishable behind their mass, but its radiance diffused in their vaporous substance lightens the cloud curtain before the deep dark blue sky. The landscape below is dark in the shadows of night, streamers of the cloud-vapor hang low over wooded hilltops, like fog, and the moon's light is reflected in a pool in the valley below.

578—FLOWERS

Lilies of the valley hang their white bells above pansies, honey-suckle and roses, and stand out in relief against their own long green leaves, in an informal bouquet held in a blue glass jar. The flowers are red, white, pink, blue and a brilliant soft yellow, and they overhang bunches of purple grapes relieved against green ivy leaves, lying on the mahogany-yellow coverlet of the table.

579—PORTRAIT HEAD

Against a dark neutral background of deep olive tints, chiefly in shadow, the head and shoulders of a young girl appear in a softened, mellow light—the flesh surface tones with amber suggestion. Figure facing the right, and as if in motion, she has turned her face to look toward the spectator, her deep eyes and left cheek in shadow while the light glows upon the right side of her face, and upon the neck and shoulder lightly exposed above robes of deep emerald and crimson.

580—A DUTCH INTERIOR

A painting of rich and mellow coloring in the opulent manner of the ancient Dutch masters, showing one of the inclusive buildings where house and stable were one in the democracy of that age. The tones are warm mahogany and olive, and the light is soft and none too plentiful. Around are various metal utensils, with spots of light gleaming amid surfaces of dark, rich patina. A small fire burns on the stone or earth floor. At the right a buxom young woman is milking a goat. An old man lays a caressing hand on her shoulder and supplicates not without fervency.

584—PEONIES

On a dark red table or mantel a yellow vase holding peonies stands out in full light before a yellow-olive wall. It is a full-necked, globular bottle-shaped vase, with lip slightly spreading, and on the neck are protuberant handles with suspended rings, while its hinted decoration is green and dark brown. It holds a full-blown cream-white peony, and two pink buds on long green-leaved stems.

586—ETRUSCAN POTTERY

A sculptured frieze resting on a tiled floor is the background for the display of three pieces of pottery, a large tazza, a two-handled cup and a larger basin or deep round dish which also has two handles, the first piece standing on its foot and the others set on side or edge. Their colors are copper-brown, olive-yellow and red, and the tiling is mottled green, yellow and brown. The classical frieze, in which three girls appear in ceremonial procession, is in the warm yellow hue of antique marble.

599—CONTENTMENT

(Water color.)

An end of an humble European cottage room, full of color, is sympathetically pictured by an understanding admirer. The yellowed, gray and smoky plaster is nicked, near a paneled door, from the red brick wall. Aloft are heavy gray beams; in a brown rack and on the floor are decorated plates and household utensils. At the left, against a background of tile with green, blue and aubergine notes, a young peasant woman in blue, plum-color and brown, with a red cap, is knitting with contented expression beside a brown table.

612—CHILDREN

(Water color.)

In a plain room with gray walls, in brilliant daylight, two little girls are amusing themselves. One in black with a red hood is sitting in a rush-bottomed chair, "weighing things" in a pair of balances, her sister in mauve and gray, with yellow tousled hair, standing at her knee watching with deep interest.

Height, 14 inches; width, 10 inches.

613—MORNING DRIVING AWAY THE SHADES OF NIGHT

(Water color.)

Projecting from the background at the center, a rocky, tree-covered promontory rises out of the picture, distant woods to left of it being dark under the mantle of night, while far at the right the horizon displays a rosy aurora. Sprites in the guise of lightly draped young women floating airily through space just clear of a water lily pond in the foreground form a continuous procession passing the promontory, those in the light pressing back those on the darker side of the point.

Signed at the lower right: P. H. NEFFLEN.

Height, 14½ inches; length, 21 inches.

614—MOONRISE

(Water color.)

The waters of a broad harbor, in slight motion, fill the picture, silvered by the light of the full moon which is rising over a bank of mist straight ahead that conceals the land. In the bright pathway of the light a dark-hulled side-wheeled steamer, rigged with masts and yards, is lying head-on, and farther away on either side various sailing boats are under way, veiled in the vaporous mist.

AMERICAN: 1843—1903

615—SUNSET

(Water color.)

Water wavering gently in a light breeze stretches from the foreground to the far distance on the left, and on the right to what is probably the low Long Island shore, already dimmed in the approach of evening. The sky is a mass of red and yellow sunset lights, crossed by strata of dark blue cloud, its glow reflected in the water. In the middle distance a sailboat is headed shoreward.

Signed at the lower left: H. FARRER, 1875.

Height, 14¼ inches; length, 22¼ inches.

WILLIAM MAGRATH, N.A.

AMERICAN: 1838—

616—GRANDFATHER'S PRIDE

(Water color.)

A corner of an Irish peasant's cottage projects into view from the right, its walls gray-white under a brown-thatched roof tinged with yellow-green. In the open doorway a young woman stands with her knitting in hand. Her small son has come out to meet the grandfather (and receive an apple). The old man is bent, and, leaning on a stick, rests an affectionate hand on the boy's head.

Height, 16 inches; width, 12 inches.

AMERICAN: 1838—

617—GOING FOR WATER
(Water color.)

Coming down a gentle incline, in a rambling sandy path through the flower-dotted fresh green grass of a wild field, a bright-eyed young peasant woman of the Emerald Isle is on her way to well or stream for water. She is bare-footed and bare-armed. A white kerchief is tied over her dark waist, and her skirts and apron show a light, tender blue, reddish-brown, gray and a deep, opulent blue.

CONTEMPORARY

618—CATTLE
(Water color.)

A flat meadow, yellow-green in the sunlight, is bounded in the distance by low hills under a gray sky, and there are suggestions of habitations. The broad land holds numerous cattle, and in the foreground a group of ten of them—red, black and dun cows—are seen close at hand in a group, one standing, the others lying down in various attitudes, their shadows spotting the grass.

619—BAVARIAN TREES
(Water color.)

On a green ridge crossing the vision and receding toward the left distance two separate groups of trees attracted the artist's eye. The nearer group on the right displays its wandering limbs in their dark ramifications, while the farther trees merge their foliage. A pond in front of the groups is filled with reflections.

620—A GALWAY GIRL

(Water color.)

And glad of it she seems to be. A look in her blue eyes says as much, with a flash for who dares flout Galway. She is seen head and shoulders, in profile to the left, her face turned to eye the observer. Her cheeks are rosy, her eye-brows dark, her dark wavy hair is bound in a blue kerchief, and she is gowned in a robe of many colors and seen against a background of brilliant yellow.

621—"WHITEWASHING DONE HERE"

(Water color.)

A note of a passing if not vanished day. In a strong light, against the background of a dark brown stone wall, with steps seen at the right, a tall negro with a mass of whitening hair brushed out over his ears is standing beside his pail of whitewash, his long-handled brush resting against his shoulder. He is in white overalls over a red shirt, and holds in his hands his old felt hat and a gaily colored bandana.

Height, 19¾ inches; width, 13¾ inches.

622—"SHINE, SIR?"

(Water color.)

A chin-bearded immigrant in a red shirt and open blue blouse, brown trousers tucked into his boots and a blanket-wrapped bundle of his belongings burdening his back, is emerging from a ferry house, carrying also a small gray trunk. Three of the small New York bootblacks of the pre-Italian days compete vigorously for an order to shine the boots!

623—THE OUTLET OF LONESOME LAKE
(Water color.)

Lonesome perhaps but handsome withal, this watery retreat in a coniferous forest. The end of the lake, occupying the foreground, narrows abruptly, marked by lily-pads, grasses and the reflections of feathery pale-green trees, to the blue outlet in the middle distance, silvered with sunlight, beyond which a regiment of pines looms against a rolling sky.

Height, 19 inches; length, 29 inches.

SAMUEL COLMAN, N.A.

AMERICAN: 1832—

624—ON THE TIBER
(Water color.)

Spaciousness of vast extent is pictured under a living sky, with color, color everywhere. The air is clear to the nearer vision, while even in the middle distance a soft, colorful haze draws a misty veil across the beyond. The storied river, filling the foreground, is a flat, terrestrial rainbow of multitudinous reflections and refractions, barges move slowly through it, people are seen in the sunlight on a bank and bridge, and the monumental buildings of the Eternal City mass at either hand.

Signed at the lower left: SAMUEL COLMAN, 1876.

Height, 21 inches; length, 30 inches.

WILLIAM TROST RICHARDS, N.A.

AMERICAN: 1833—1905

625—ROCKY BLUFF

(Water color.)

On the left is a deep blue sea, with a sailing vessel afar off, silhouetted against a light horizon belt under a dark sky. In the middle distance the shore rises abruptly, sweeping inland to the right in a huge rocky bluff, gray, white, and with a thin covering of green, the land at the foot of the declivity being a fertile green valley through which a stream courses, passing behind some colorful foreground rocks on its way to the sea.

626—CHURCH INTERIOR

(Water color.)

The spacious interior of an ecclesiastical edifice of noble proportions is presented in color whose quality of essential iridescence detracts not at all from its deep solemnity. Majestic columns with carven effigies, tall windows, domes, canopied thrones, all partake in the rich, subdued colors—grayish-brown, purple, crimson, green, and variations on yellow—and veiling all is the atmosphere of mysticism, enveloping also a throng of worshippers scarcely defined.

Signed at the lower left: M. BAUER.

Height, 24 inches; width, 21 inches.

627—OUT OF THE COOL WOODS

(Water color.)

Out of woods resembling portions of the Adirondacks, their background depths a greenish-blue, the middle-ground open but filled with flourishing underbrush, comes a brook which spreads itself thin over broadly shelving rocks and tumbles in light falls into the foreground. The rocky shelves and ledges are gray and rusty-brown, with green mossy sides, and slender leaning trees arch over them.

DUTCH: 1839—

628—REMORSE

(Pen and Ink Drawing.)

Lying prone in utter dejection, or abasement, a woman of voluptuous figure is found in dimly lighted precincts, weeping or supplicating. She is in loose, diaphanous garments, her hair is thrown loose, and she has prostrated herself on some low steps, perhaps leading to an altar or shrine, her head toward the left.

629—A FISHING VILLAGE
(Charcoal Drawing.)

Low on the sands at the very water's edge is a Dutch fishing village, the cottages with long slanting roofs reaching down the center of vision toward the distance, and many sailing boats drawn up in front of them on the left. In the foreground are figures on the beach, one a woman carrying pails on a neck-yoke, and at the right are suggestions of dunes.

630—FISHER GIRL
(Charcoal Drawing.)

A young woman in sabots and Dutch cap, and wearing a cape, has come down to the seashore just after a boat has come in and unloaded its catch. She stands facing the right, with a quiet dignity of carriage, examining a fine fish which she has picked up from a basket on the sands. A little distant is a boat, with figures in and near it.

631—A WINDY DAY
(Black and White.)

On the left a broad body of water, on the right a bank of its shore, and on the beach, approaching the spectator, in the foreground, a young girl of attractive features, bare-armed and bare-footed. Her head is bound in a kerchief, her hair beneath it flying in the wind, which bends to its will also the bushes growing at the crest of the bank.

634—INDUSTRY

(Charcoal Drawing.)

Two little Dutch girls early habited to industry make a pretty picture of placid contentment and prematurely sober interest in the inevitable problems of life, beginning the work of knitting. Both are capped and both wear short-sleeved frocks. One seated facing the observer is laboriously making the stitch, while her but little older sister, standing at her side and seen in profile, solicitously touches her fingers, to guide if necessary.

635—WILLOWS BY THE RIVER
(Black and White.)

Great willows line a willow bank, the thick trunks branching low, and the line receding from close in the foreground on the left toward the right distance. The shore on which they stand is low, and the land uneven, and beyond them is the broad, smooth river, whose farther shore comes distantly into view.
